ROBERT A. MEERS, Notary Public.

"THE SENTINEL" TO-DAY.

As is our custom whenever there is an extra pressure of advertising matter upon our columns, we issue to-day a fourteen column supplement, containing a large amount of choice reading matter, to which every subscriber and purchaser of the paper is entitled without extra charge. We are determined that the extent and variety of the news and literary columns of the SENTINEL shall be in no manner impaired by the demands of our leading business firms upon our space for advertising purposes. The fact that the SENTINEL is now universally recognized as the best advertising medium ever offered to the business men of this city is proven by a glance at our columns, and is especially gratifying to us. We are serving the SENTINEL to subscribers at a price barely covering the cost of the white paper and the expense of distribution, and by this means have built up a phenomenal circulation and increased the constituency and influence of the paper in proportion. It is now found in practically every English reading household of the city, and is generally read throughout northern Indiana and northwestern Ohio, being distributed by carriers in every town and village within a radius of seventy-five miles of Fort Wayne.

Now a word as to our advertising patrons. They are the live business men of Fort Wayne. They comprise the leading firms in the several branches of trade—the houses which carry the largest stocks, sell at the lowest prices and offer the best inducements to the public. None of our readers can go amiss by dealing with the business houses who monopolize the space in to-day's SENTINEL, nor will it be necessary for them to visit other houses in this line of trade. For instance, it would be the height of stupidity for a person to go elsewhere in search of any article in their lines after visiting FOSTER BROTHERS, ROOT & CO., and J. PIENE. These firms literally monopolize the dry goods trade of Fort Wayne, although the new firm of M. FRANK & Co. promise to make lively and formidable competitors. Then as to the ready made clothing business: the representative houses are, without question, SAM, PETE & MAX, OWEN, PILEY & Co., and A. S. LAFFERTY & Co. C. SCHIEFER & Son are confessedly in the very front rank of the boot and shoe trade. J. M. KANE & Brother stand confessedly alone in their branch of business. The Globe restaurant is one of the institutions of the city, and no stranger has seen Fort Wayne until he has visited that establishment. The Model Coffee House is a popular and conveniently located restaurant, and well worthy of patronage. The ladies will find much of interest and value to them in the advertisement of Mrs. May McGowan. The announcements of PRESSOTT, Brothers &

Co, and W. E. GRIFFITH, dealers in stoves, are timely and seasonable. Our advertising columns contain the cards of other old established and substantial business firms in nearly all branches of trade, and our subscribers will find their announcements both interesting and profitable. Money can be made and time saved by a careful perusal of the advertising department of the SENTINEL, not forgetting the "Half Cent Column" and the "City Features."

STATE POLITICS.

State Treasurer Fleming has been chosen chairman of the democratic state central committee.

The Ligonier Banner says: Senator McDonald thinks the democratic national ticket ought to be Thomas A. Hendricks for president and Clarkson S. Potter for vice president. A ticket like this, the senator thinks, could pull through. Possible.

The Evansville Courier says: Here is a good ticket for 1880, composed of two Simon-pure old hickory Democrats:

For President: BLUE JEANS WILLIAMS, of Indiana.
For Vice-President: UNCLE DICK BISHOP, of Ohio.

The Huntington Democrat says: The Hon. Wm. H. English, one of the soundest democrats in the state of Indiana, is coming into prominence as a probable candidate of the party in 1880. Mr. English has been many times in the state of Indiana, and while he has not been an aspirant for office, he may yet be called upon to lead his party to victory next year.

The Wabash Courier says: The Fort Wayne Gazette, a republican newspaper of the stalwart stripe, suggests Frank Landers as the democratic nominee for governor of Indiana. If Mr. Landers really desires the nomination, and we guess he does, he had better make the Gazette Prize him so disreputable a name as to do him no good with his party.

The Angola Herald says: A number of our exchanges have expressed themselves as favorable to the nomination of Senator Joseph E. McDonald for gubernatorial honors in 1880, but the Wabash Courier has taken the opinion that "Senator McDonald is not hankering after the governorship, but would accept the second place on the presidential ticket. It will not be in order for the radicals to organize a 'boom' to kill Indiana's senior senator."

The other day the SENTINEL, which was seeking information, asked the question, "What claims has William H. English upon the democratic party?" The Ligonier Banner makes the following reply:

Voting for Grant in 1868 and again in 1872, favoring the public credit act of 1869, championing the honest money national bank cause, and recommending the formation of a "colored brother" for marshal of Indiana (P. S. Mr. English to his credit), and in 1874, voted for Tilden and Hendricks in 1876.

NEWS NOTES.

The steamship Maine brought $800,000 in gold on her last trip from Europe.

Meetings were held in Lowell, Mass., and Cincinnati Friday in the interest of the sufferers in Ireland.

The peace commission at Los Pinos Agency, Col., is now in session. Chiefs Douglass, Johnson and Sdwick have arrived. As the commission sets with closed doors, nothing will be known in relation to its proceedings until the official report reaches Washington.

The secretary of the treasury has officially informed the secretary of state of the recent decision of the treasury department prohibiting the importation of seal cattle into the United States from the Dominion of Canada, and requested that the Canadian authorities be notified that the circular to that effect was issued November 3rd.

The president's message is now in course of preparation. It will be shorter than usual, and contains very few recommendations other than those comprised in the reports of his cabinet officers. It is believed the only important topic under the head of foreign affairs will be a reopening of the fishery question with Great Britain; and it is also understood that special attention will be directed to the advisability of legislation to authorize a resumption of funding operations.

F. H. Brown, Manager of the Western Union Telegraph office at St. Louis, has been served with a subpoena issued by the grand jury, commanding him to appear before that body on Monday next and bring with him all telegrams which passed between certain parties alleged to have been connected with the so-called gambler's ring. It is understood Mr. Brown will refuse to produce the dispatches, that he will be committed to jail for contempt and the case will be taken to the state supreme court at once. Two courts, the criminal and court of appeals, have already decided that the telegrams must be produced, but the telegraph company seems determined to contest the question in the higher courts and will probably carry the case to the United States supreme court.

The German authorities have prohibited Russian steamboat traffic on the Prussian section of the River Niemen as a retaliation for a similar prohibition by the Russians on their portion of the river.

The Agency Russe contradicts the statement that Lord Dufferin, British ambassador to Russia has been instructed to submit a plan for a modus vivendi between the two governments in regard to Central Asia.

The trouble in the London Stock Exchange originated in Paris, where there is a panic in consequence of a rumor that the British fleet has been ordered to enter the Black Sea, which Russia will probably make a cassus belli.

The Republique Francaise announces that it has been decided to remove Marshal Canrobert from the presidency of the commission of the promotion of officers in the French army. Gen. Aymard, governor of Paris, succeeds him.

At the next session of the Turkish frontier commission, the Ottoman commissioners will present the certificate of several eminent French engineers to the effect that the line of the frontier proposed by the Greek commissioners is eight thousand meters in advance of the northern frontier indicated by the thirteenth protocol treaty of Berlin.

The river Niemen affair attracts attention as being a result of one of the many vexatious acts constantly committed by Russian customs officials and frontier guards against German traders. The Russians several times lately stopped Prussian vessels on the Niemen, so finally the Berlin authorities sent an order to stop all Russian vessels on the Prussian portion of the river.

ROBERT A. MEERS, Notary Public.

"THE SENTINEL" TO-DAY.

As is our custom whenever there is an extra pressure of advertising matter upon our columns, we issue to-day a fourteen column supplement, containing a large amount of choice reading matter, to which every subscriber and purchaser of the paper is entitled without extra charge. We are determined that the extent and variety of the news and literary columns of the SENTINEL shall be in no manner impaired by the demands of our leading business firms upon our space for advertising purposes. The fact that the SENTINEL is now universally recognized as the best advertising medium ever offered to the business men of this city is proven by a glance at our columns, and is especially gratifying to us. We are serving the SENTINEL to subscribers at a price barely covering the cost of the white paper and the expense of distribution, and by this means have built up a phenomenal circulation and increased the constituency and influence of the paper in proportion. It is now found in practically every English reading household of the city, and is generally read throughout northern Indiana and northwestern Ohio, being distributed by carriers in every town and village within a radius of seventy-five miles of Fort Wayne.

Now a word as to our advertising patrons. They are the live business men of Fort Wayne. They comprise the leading firms in the several branches of trade—the houses which carry the largest stocks, sell at the lowest prices and offer the best inducements to the public. None of our readers can go amiss by dealing with the business houses who monopolize the space in to-day's SENTINEL, nor will it be necessary for them to visit other houses in this line of trade. For instance, it would be the height of stupidity for a person to go elsewhere in search of any article in their lines after visiting FOSTER BROTHERS, ROOT & CO., and J. PIERRE. These firms literally monopolize the dry goods trade of Fort Wayne, although the new firm of M. FRANK & CO. promise to make lively and formidable competitors. Then as to the ready made clothing business: the representative houses are, without question, SAM, PETE & MAX, OWEN, PINLEY & CO. and A. S. LAFERTY & CO. C. SCHIEFER & SON are confessedly in the very front rank of the boot and shoe trade. J. M. KANE & Brother stand confessedly alone in their branch of business. The Globe restaurant is one of the institutions of the city, and no stranger has seen Fort Wayne until he has visited that establishment. The Model Coffee House is a popular and conveniently located restaurant, and well worthy of patronage. The ladies will find much of interest and value to them in the advertisement of Mrs. MAY MCGOWAN. The announcements of PRISCOTT, Brothers &

Co. and W. E. GRIFFITH, dealers in stoves, are timely and seasonable. Our advertising columns contain the cards of other old established and substantial business firms in nearly all branches of trade, and our subscribers will find their announcements both interesting and profitable. Money can be made and time saved by a careful perusal of the advertising department of the SENTINEL, not forgetting the "Half Cent Column" and the "City Features."

STATE POLITICS.

State Treasurer Fleming has been chosen chairman of the democratic state central committee.

The Ligonier Banner says: Send McDonald thinks the democratic national ticket ought to be Thomas S. Ford for president and Clarkson S. Potter for vice-president. He thinks this the senator thinks could pull through. Possible.

The Evansville Courier says: Here is a good ticket for 1880, composed of two Simon-pure old hickory Democrats:

For President: BLUE-JEANS WILLIAMS,
For Vice-President: UNCLE DICK BISHOP,
OF Ohio.

The Huntington Democrat says: The Hon. Wm. H. English, one of the soundest Democrats in the state of Indiana, is coming into prominence as a probable candidate of the party in 1880. Mr. English has been many times honored by the democracy, and while he has not been an aspirant for office, he may yet be called upon to lead his party to victory next year.

The Wabash Courier says: The Fort Wayne Gazette, a republican newspaper of the extreme stripe, suggests Frank Landers as the democratic nominee for governor of Indiana. If Mr. Landers really desires the nomination, and we guess he does, he had better resign his position as editor of the Gazette. Praise from so disreputable a source can do him no good with his party.

The Angola Herald says: A number of our exchanges have expressed themselves as favorable to the nomination of Senator Joseph E. McDonald for gubernatorial honors in 1880, but the Wabash Courier is inclined to the opinion that Senator McDonald is not qualified for the office. He would accept the second place on the presidential ticket. It will now be in order for him to organize an "abdominal" to kill Indiana's senior senator.

The other day the SENTINEL, which was seeking information, asked the question, "What claims has William H. English upon the democratic party?" The Ligonier Banner makes the following reply:

Voting for Grant in 1868 and again in 1872, favoring the public credit act of 1869, championing the "homestead" money national bank cause, and recommending the nomination of a "colored brother" for marshal of Indianapolis, P. S. Mr. English has the everlasting credit he said, voted for Tilden and Hendricks in 1876.

The president's message is now in course of preparation. It will be shorter than usual, and contains very few recommendations other than those comprised in the reports of his cabinet officers. It is believed the only important topic under the head of foreign affairs will be a reopening of the fishery question with Great Britain; and it is also understood that special attention will be directed to the advisability of legislation to authorize a resumption of funding operations.

E. H. Brown, Manager of the Western Union telegraph office at St. Louis, has been served with a subpoena issued by the grand jury, commanding him to appear before that body on Monday next and bring with him all telegrams which passed between certain parties alleged to have been connected with the so-called gambler's ring. It is understood Mr. Brown will refuse to produce the dispatches, that he will be committed to jail for contempt and the case will be taken to the state supreme court at once. Two courts, the criminal and court of appeals, have already decided that the telegrams must be produced, but the telegraph company seems determined to contest the question in the higher courts and will probably carry the case to the United States supreme court.

PLUCKY PERUVIANS

Were Those Who Defended the Ram Huascar in Her Last Fight.

Full Particulars of One of the Most Desperate Naval Battles of Modern Times.

The South American mails brought the following details of the capture of the Huascar. Admiral Irujo perceived that his ship was gone, but no thought of surrender entered his mind, and the whole ship's company assumed their appointed stations with a conviction that no human power could extricate the Huascar. From the decks and tops of the two vessels the fire of musketry was incessant, and the Huascar, becoming painfully apparent. The other Chilean vessel arrived on the scene and immediately opened fire, first directing her attention to the Huascar's fighting turret. The following details of the capture of the Huascar: The Blanco's guns were excellently served and the Chilean turret was carried away, and Admiral Irujo taken down below for the care of the surgeons, with one leg shattered. While the Blanco's cabin a solid 300-pound shot from the Blanco struck the ram in the stern, destroying the steering gear, and passing directly through the ship, left a gaping aperture large enough for a boat to enter. This shot killed the admiral, his aged secretary and several others. Capt. Elias Aguirre assumed command of the ship on the death of the admiral and took his station in the gun turret. The turret was hit by a heavy shell, which, passing through a port, exploded inside, disabling one of the two guns, killing Aguirre and all who were serving the piece. The Huascar was now practically at the mercy of the enemy. Her officers and crew were despondent, but the national flag was still flying in defiance and no one even whispered of surrender. Capt. Nuttson Carvajal took command after Aguirre's death, but was instantly carried below, dangerously wounded. First Lieut. Kotter Quez succeeded him, and after a moment's delay shared the fate of the admiral and Aguirre. The Huascar discharged her sole remaining cannon long intervals, as the very turret itself, only thirty feet in diameter, was choking up with the debris of shattered guns and bodies of the dead. Below the decks of the doomed vessel the men utilized the few remaining provisions, and the Huascar and chimney were riddled with balls. The propeller struck and fouled one of the two funnels, and the Huascar, sixty men who went into the action only eighty-six were alive and the majority of the crew were wounded. Five comrades had succeeded each other in their perilous part. Three were dead, one grievously wounded, and the rest were too exhausted to maintain his trumpet. The Chileans thought their time had come to a close, and a boarding party to complete victory, but the brave fellows on the Huascar rallied and drove them back with loss. This was the expiring effort. The Chileans sent another boarding party, this time with success, and the Huascar was theirs.

BIRDS OF PREY.

The Hangar-On and Harpies of Hotels Who Debauch Foolish Wives and Wrong Unsuspecting Husbands.

Who Was the "Cincinnati Blonde," Whose Fate is a Mother in the Absence of Her Husband's Lord?

[New York Mercury.] Every one knows Joe Ernani, the great dispenser of "wet goods," who, until a few months ago, was one of the most prominent figures behind the bar of a Broadway hotel. Recently Joe started on his own account, and being thus at liberty to speak freely, his revelations of certain phases of hotel life will be read with interest:

THE HOTEL MASHERS.
"There is," said he, "a class of men who hang around hotels whose sole occupation is to make the acquaintance of those ladies who are young or middle-aged and good-looking, and whom they think are likely to become their victims. These fellows are, as a rule, men with no specified means of a livelihood; some have money enough to keep them in a quiet way, but as a rule their means are very small. They come to the hotel early in the morning and scan the register, and from the clerk behind the desk, with whom they have a speaking acquaintance, learn who the people are whose names are on the list, whether they are young or middle-aged, etc. This done, the hangar-on waits about the hotel until lunch or dinner hour, when he goes to the dining room and finds out from the waiter where Mrs. or Miss has her seat at the table, and gets him for a trifle to place him as near her as possible. This is all he wants. Good address and effrontery do the rest, and before the meal is over he has managed to

SCRAPE AN ACQUAINTANCE.
After this it is plain sailing. He calls first upon the lady, and is received by her in the ladies' reception room, and later becomes on such intimate terms that when he comes he is shown to her private suite of apartments. Once having become sufficiently intimate to be shown to the private apartments of those he calls upon, the hangar-on loses but little time in still further increasing his intimacy. He accompanies the lady on a shopping tour, or for a walk. She, of course, feels lonely, her husband being absent and she a stranger in the city, and jumps eagerly at the new acquaintance's offer of escort. Returning from one or other of these tours, what more natural than that both parties take some refreshments? This is the thin end of the wedge, and in a few days the favorite beverage of both the lady and her friend are both known to the natty bar tender who mixes the drinks with a sly wink as he asks the waiter to what number it is to be charged, and gravely hears the answer, as the servant planks down a bill, that these drinks are not to be charged at all. A curious thing in connection with this is that seldom or ever are refreshments thus ordered permitted to be charged in the hotel bills which the

HUSBAND WILL HAVE TO PAY.
On the contrary, this portion of the hotel business is a cash one, and the waiters are especially keen so that they keep their mouths closed. Perhaps, though, to the head housekeeper, they will on the third, fourth, or fifth visit to the bar for the favorite liquor of those they are serving, drop a word that gives the whole thing away, but such confidences are like confessions to a priest—held secret. You don't need to be told that the person who pays for all this is the visited, not the visitor, nor does it require any great stretch of the imagination to picture what follows. All this happens between the hours of the husband's leaving the hotel and his return between 5 and 6 in the evening, by which time the 'friend' has taken his departure, and Madam is found suffering from a sick, nervous headache or something of the kind which prevents her leaving the room. All that I have said so far may be considered as generalities. Now I shall give you a few actual facts about cases of this kind that have come under my own personal notice.

A LADY FROM NEW ORLEANS.
"Within the last eight months a lady and gentleman from New Orleans came to a certain hotel here. She was a very handsome, magnificently formed woman, a southerner by birth, while her husband was a quiet, cool northern born and bred man. They occupied one of the best suites of apartments in the hotel, and were evidently extremely wealthy. The husband was frequently away owing to his business, and his wife, who did not appear to have any friends here, was left a great deal alone. One of these people I have been telling you about made her acquaintance. It ripened and after a week or two he was with her a greater portion of the day. The amount of money that these two spent upon wines and special lunches and suppers in the lady's private apartments was something wonderful, and astonished even the hotel clerks. The way it came so prominently under notice was this: At first every thing that was ordered during the day by No. would be paid for. After a time, though, either the lady began to find her pocket money running short or grew careless, and all orders were charged. Her husband paid the bills without question, and, of course, it was nobody's business to tell him what was going on in his absence. Every thing went on smoothly for, I guess, better than three months, when there came

A SUDDEN AND MOST UNEXPECTED ENDING.
It came about in this way. The husband had been out of the city for two or three weeks in Chicago, and was not expected back until ten days later. His wife consequently considered herself perfectly safe and had her friend with her constantly. One evening, or rather afternoon, between four and five, who should walk into the hotel but the colonel, returned so much earlier than expected. He went to the office, spoke two or three words to the clerk and then got into the elevator and went upstairs. Their apartments were on the second floor, and it takes about a minute to get to them from the office. I mention this because within two minutes we were all startled by a terrific noise upstairs. Proprietor, clerks, porters, hall-boys, all made for the scene. As I ran up the stairs from the bar-room—we were not just at the moment busy—a man rushed past the landing at the head of the stairs, followed by a man holding and sweating like the very deuce. Up to the staircase at the far end of the hall the figure ran; up the stairs the pursuer followed, whom I recognized as the colonel. Along a passage and up another staircase, the curious crowd of guests and employees following. Snap! an explosion! The colonel had fired, but fortunately missed the object. Ere he could fire again, some one caught him and held his hand. Then one of the servants hid the person he was pursuing in a closet, where he lay hid for three or four hours. In his anger the colonel gave the whole story away. He had gone to his apartments, and on entering the parlor had found it vacant, and passed from it to his wife's bed room. Opening the door he was just in time to see a strange man kissing her. The rest you know. The parties left the hotel the same evening. I have not heard where they went to.

ADVENTURES OF THREE LADIES.
"Just before this there was a party of three ladies, who always were together. They had made acquaintance through stopping at the hotel. One was a widow, the eldest of the three. The second a married lady, whose husband was in Europe. The third was unmarried, quite young, and belonged to one of the oldest families in New York. They always were together, and each of them had one of these hotel hangar-ons for a friend. Their carryings-on were well known, and of course were spoken about. Their position, however, was such that no one dared to speak to them, and it was not until one of them, the widow, became sick, and the cause became notorious, that they left the hotel. The widow died shortly after. The married lady, I hear, deserted her husband and is now living in Philadelphia with some one who picked her up. The young lady, I see, was married only a few weeks ago to a notable up-town man. If he only knew!" "Knew what?" "Well, all that some folk could tell him."

A BRIDE'S SCRAPE.
"Within the last year a certain leading belle, who was staying with her husband at an up-town hotel, while their residence was being put in order, fell in love with the tenor of an Italian opera troupe. Of course he reciprocated, and the way the two carried on was known to every body but the husband. He, poor man, knew and suspected nothing until one afternoon, when happening accidentally to come up town, he found the tenor where he had no right to be. He was a proud, but sensible man, and made no fuss. Simply sending for his bill, he paid it at once, ordered his baggage to be sent after him, and left the same evening for the west, taking his wife along with him. What had passed between them will never be known. But had you seen her face as I did you would have pitied her. It was the face of a corpse.

ANOTHER OF THESE CASES
That came under my notice, and which happened so recently that the circumstances will be fresh in the minds of many of those who, staying in the same hotel, were unavoidably made acquainted with the particulars, is that of a lady whom we used to call the 'Cincinnati Blonde.' She was a beautiful woman, and her figure was simply superb. Her husband came here from Cincinnati to take charge of a large hardware store on Broadway, in which he was interested. He was a good deal away, and finally went to Europe, leaving his wife at the hotel. She, too, seemed to have few friends, and having made the acquaintance of one of these individuals I have been speaking of, was with him constantly. No hotel proprietor has a right to question ladies receiving gentlemen in her own private parlor, and no sooner had the husband started for Europe than her hotel-made acquaintance became a regular visitor. They were together from breakfast till ten or eleven o'clock at night. She dressed the fellow and gave him money, and in fact lavished every thing she had upon him. Thirteen months after his departure the husband returned to New York. Arriving at the hotel, he was met as he entered his wife's room by the doctor, who had just been attending her at her accouchement."

THE WAY VANDERBILT SUCCEEDED.
When Commodore Vanderbilt was running steamboats, he beat his rivals by crowding on steam to the utmost, and even running down his economy if necessary to accomplish his triumph. When he went into railroading, he adopted a much swifter and more successful way, by his own management, thus capturing all roads by sharing with them the immense pool of profits that were made by his skillful manipulation. Messrs. Lawrence & Co., Bankers, N. Y., accomplished a much greater success in stock operations by their new combination method of thousands of customers are pooled into one vast fund and co-operated under the management of the best and most successful of the best of the large capital and best skill. Profits divided can be used with great economy. $200,000 profit, $80 would return $200,000 in profit on the stock during the month, according to the market. The new circular method of managing money, which any one can operate profitably. Stocks and bonds wanted. Government bonds applied. Lawrence & Co., Bankers, 57 Exchange Place, N. Y. City.

Grand Concentration of Beautiful HOLIDAY PRESENTS.

Headquarters for almost Everything Nice for a Gift to Husband, Wife, Parent, Brother, Sister, Sweetheart, or Lover.

We propose to crowd every foot of room of our vast establishment this year, from this time on to January 1st, with the most acceptable holiday presents the New York market affords. We shall sell everything for a very slight advance over cost, and trust to the crowd of customers and our enormous sales to make up for the smallness of our profits.

Our Department System of crowding a dozen kinds of business into one store, all under but one set of expenses, enables us to undersell any house in the country, unless it may be Macy's, in New York, which is conducted on the same principle.

Five Thousand Dollars worth of Camp Chairs, Rattan and Willow Chairs, elegant Easy Chairs and superb Patent Rockers, specially bought for the holiday trade, the handsomest line, we candidly believe, ever shown in the West. Prices range from $1.40 up to the finest goods. Come in now while the stock is full, pick out the chair you want, and have it laid by until Christmas. Prices are "booming" on all kinds of furniture, and the next stock we buy will cost us just what we are selling the present stock for.

Next week we open an entirely new stock of Fine, Medium and Cheap FURS. A set, or part of a set of Fine Furs make an elegant holiday present.

Elegant Cloth and Fur Gloves for Gentlemen—an acceptable gift.

Carriage Robes in great variety. Fine line of White and Colored Blankets at retail at wholesale prices.

Most elegant line of Dolmans, Cloaks, Circulars and Shawls ever shown in Fort Wayne.

We are cutting prices fearfully low on Black and Colored Silks, Cashmeres, French Novelties, and throughout our immense Dress Goods Stock generally.

Our line of Carpets, bought or ordered before the advance, is replete with the most superb designs of the carpet looms, and our prices so low that we are shipping goods from this department to persons living in Chicago and other large cities who happen here on visits to friends.

We are giving our usual great drives on Muslins, Prints, Tickings, Denims, Flannels, and other Domestic Goods.

OUR BUSINESS PLATFORM.—One price to all, and that the lowest. No misrepresentation of goods allowed; they must be sold on their merits or not at all. Money refunded to all customers not satisfied with their purchases. A constant reduction of the rate of our profits as rapidly as the great increase in our trade permits.

OUR AMBITION.—To build up in Fort Wayne an establishment which shall rival that of Macy & Co., of New York. We ask the co-operation of all our Citizens, and promise them that every dollar in the increase in our business shall accrue to their benefit as well as our own.

Foster Brothers, Great Department Store, 11 & 13 Court St., Ft. Wayne.

THE SCHOOL MARM'S SKIP.

Concluding Session of the County Teacher's Institute.

Col. Robertson's Address on "Defects in Our Curriculum."

The teachers' institute closed yesterday afternoon, the closing exercises being quite interesting. The answering of queries excited considerable merriment at times.

Mrs. Ella C. Kirkland called her class in reading, being composed of eighteen pupils, introducing the ring and falling inflections, followed by the circumflex and monotone inflections. The class in concert and individually, then read several different selections, giving explanations and definitions as they proceeded.

Col. R. S. Robertson closed the exercises in an address on the "Defects in our Curriculum." The speaker started with an epitome of the duties and great work of a teacher; the heart must be in the work or it will not be a success. Those who teach school from purely mercenary motives, with no other object than to draw their salaries, had better retire from the profession. The children who are receiving their tutelage now can measure the teacher far better than he imagines.

The gentleman followed with some statistics respecting the number of children under the care of the teachers of Indiana to-day. The teachers should determine to first gain the respect of their pupils, and second their love. This is possible, and should be an object. "Show me a teacher whom the pupils all fear and I will show you a teacher whom I would discharge at once if I had the power. A superior education is a requisite, but not the chief requisite for a good teacher."

No success can be achieved without hard work, and it is not only six hours a day for five days in a week, which should be given for the benefit of the pupils. All should remember that work is the natural condition of mankind. Improvement is needed in the ranks of the teachers, which not even the most sanguine would deny; heeded examples of horrible butcheries of the king's English by alleged teachers. Pupils should never be called harsh names and should never hear a word of slang from their teacher.

A teacher should recognize the fact that he is paid to instruct and not solely to hear recitations; and the system of demerits should be reformed. All of the world's successful men are self-made and men who began at the bottom of the ladder and worked up, carrying their burdens as they went. The poor man's son should not be debared, but free scholarship should and should be provided for those, and those only who were found to be deserving of them, and could appreciate their value.

The address was highly applauded and at its conclusion the institute adjourned sine die. The SENTINEL of Monday will contain the address in full.

THE RAILROADS.

Change of time to-morrow on the Wabash.

The Pittsburgh pay car will arrive on Monday.

The work of constructing new cars for the Wabash is going forward most satisfactorily.

The opinion is expressed at Wabash headquarters, Toledo, that the present prices of iron and steel cannot be maintained.

Mr. Allyn Cox, who has served the Wabash most satisfactorily as its auditor, retires from the position and is succeeded by Mr. D. B. Howard, the late St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railway. Mr. Cox will go into business in New York.

The United States Express Company comes off of the Wabash lines December 1st, to give place to Jay Gould's express company. This is a severe blow on the United States Express Company, as it was one of the best roads their messengers ran over.

The Peoria, Pekin and Jacksonville Railroad was sold at Pekin, Ill., by the master in chancery of Peoria county, under a decree of the circuit court, to Solon Humphreys, of New York, for $950,000. The purchase was made in the interest of the Wabash Railway, who, it is understood, will run the road hereafter.

While the Thomas Scott party was going to the depot at Grand Rapids Friday, to go south on a special train, the train pulling the hack containing Mr. Eckles and several other Philadelphia gentlemen ran away and upset the carriage, throwing Mr. Eckles out and breaking his ankle. The train was delayed about two hours getting Mr. Eckles in readiness to travel.

The order for new equipments for the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific Railway, is more extensive than at first stated. Already 30 locomotives, 15 passenger coaches and 3,100 freight cars are under contract, the latter comprising box, stock, coal and flat cars. Of these 600 will be built at the Toledo shops of the Wabash road, and the rest distributed among various builders, as follows: The Troy Car Works, 200; Gilbert Car Co.'s Works, Buffalo, 200; Michael Schall, York, Pa., 600; Lebanon, Pa., Car Works, 400, and Lehigh Car Works, Stempston, Pa., 1,100. The Rhode Island Locomotive Works are to build 15 of the locomotives. All are to be delivered by the first of March.

MORE WABASH SPECULATIONS. (Toledo Blade.)

Things are in a feverish state of uncertainty over about the Wabash general offices. Vice President Hopkins and General Manager Gault are to return to Toledo Thursday from New York, when probably further developments will be made. Meantime it looks as though D. B. Howard, of St. Louis, would be the auditor of the new line, and James F. Howe, also of St. Louis, secretary. Mr. W. B. Corneau, of the Wabash, will go to St. Louis as treasurer, while Col. Andrews will serve as the general superintendent of the great Trans-Mississippi line, with headquarters at Toledo. Mr. A. C. Bird, of the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern will probably become general freight agent of the new company, but the long and faithful services of John M. Osborne in that capacity in the Wabash Road would indicate that he will be well provided for. Messrs. Lord of the St. Louis road and Townsend of the Wabash will divide the offices of the general passenger and ticket agent between them. It is understood that they neither of them have any preference, but will consult their wives, as the general passenger agent will have the most traveling to do.

The Columbia Street Old Fogies. (Antioch National Enterprise.)

Columbia street, Ft. Wayne, merchants have been vigorously "hustled up" by the SENTINEL, and from what we learn, that journal has done much good in the way of "busting" up the old fogies, which these Columbia street fellows held to with such tenacity.

Live business men are what is needed in every community, and these old "pull backs" are always a detriment to any city, town or village wherein they may be found. If they don't accept this as a lesson, we hope the SENTINEL will go for them again, as it seldom undertakes anything for the good of the people that it does not accomplish.

Temperance.

A very interesting temperance meeting was held last evening, at Reformed Men's Hall. Speeches were made by Capt. Barbour, J. M. Dunlap, Mrs. Kent Mason, Rev. Deidman, Rev. McFarland, Neil McKay, H. E. Chapman, Thos. Kavanaugh, Calvin Anderson, George W. Jones, E. B. Brock and others. A number signed the pledge. Another meeting to-night.

Thomas Kavanaugh, of this city, was appointed on the committee on permanent organization of the Blue Ribbon convention, at Indianapolis Thursday.

A Card From Mr. Williams.

To the Editor of the SENTINEL: Fort Wayne, Nov. 14, 1879.—In your paper of the 14th inst., you say: "It would be well for him" (meaning myself) "to explain his connection with the midnight transfer of $100,000 of the city bonds to the Cincinnati, Richmond and Fort Wayne Railroad."

Allow me to state, through the same channel, that I had nothing to do with the delivery of bonds to that road, or any other road, and therefore no explanation is needed. J. L. WILLIAMS.

The "Sentinel." (Deatur Democrat.)

The Fort Wayne SENTINEL is getting better and better every day. Its pages are the brightest and newest of any daily now coming to this place.

Dogs! Dogs! Dogs!

10,000 pointers will arrive in a few days, and be turned loose in this city. One will be left at your door, which will point you to the $10.40 and $7.60 all-wool cassimere dress suits offered by Sam, Pete & Max.

AMUSEMENTS.

"H. M. S. PINAFORE."

Seats are going off with a rush for the entertainment Monday evening, when the Fort Wayne "Pinafore" Company will produce the greatest musical success of the day, "Her Majesty's Ship Pinafore."

The opera has been thoroughly rehearsed, and will be produced with all the appropriate scenery, costumes obtained from Chicago, a strong cast (comprising the best musical talent of the city), a well drilled orchestra, a large and carefully trained chorus, "Pinafore" will be well acted and well sung next Monday evening. Don't fail to secure seats at once.

BARLOW, WILSON, PRIMROSE & WEST'S MINSTRELS.

This ever-popular company—which has been enlarged, strengthened and in every way improved since its last visit here—will give one of its inimitable entertainments at the Academy of Music next Tuesday evening. The Academy will doubtless be crowded. The company contains ten first-class singers, strong and dance men, etc., and will give an original and novel entertainment. Of this troupe the New Haven (Conn.) Journal says:

"Barlow, Wilson, Primrose & West's Minstrels gave one of their inimitable entertainments last evening, producing a show of uncommon merit and interest, well repaying patrons, as frequently attested by unbounded demonstrations of pleasure and satisfaction. The whole entertainment was highly enjoyed, and this crowd of place. Let the house be crowded, and the city again."

Popular prices are announced. Seats can be procured at Geo. S. Fowler's, on Court street.

THE ALERT BALL.

Alert Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, will give a grand ball at Arion Hall on the evening of Thursday, December 4th, the anniversary of Geo. Washington's farewell address.

Extensive preparations are being made to render this the grandest affair of the kind in the social history of Fort Wayne. The Alerts, as they are being called, will give a complete success of everything they undertake. They propose to make this ball surpass all their previous efforts.

GRAND TEMPERANCE MEETING.

And Mrs. Kent Mason at the Academy of Music. To-morrow, Sunday, at 3 o'clock, Mrs. Kent Mason will address an hour temperance meeting at the above named place. Let the house be crowded. Messrs. Barbour and Dunlap will take part in the meeting.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bowen Complete Twenty-Five Years of Married Life.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bowen celebrated their silver wedding last evening at their residence, corner of Washington and Hanna streets. They were married at South Hanover, Ind., on Nov. 14, 1854, and removed to this city the same year, where they have resided ever since.

The affair last evening passed off in a delightful manner, a number of relatives and friends from a distance being present. The following is a list of the presents:

REMEDY FOR HARD TIMES.

Stop spending so much on fine clothes, rich food and style. Buy good, healthy food, cheaper and better clothing; get more real and substantial things of life every way, and especially stop the foolish habit of running after expensive and vile humbug medicine that does you only harm, and makes the proprietors rich, but put your trust in the greatest of all simple, pure remedies, Hop Bitters, that cures always at a trifling cost, and you will see better times and good health. Try it once. Read of it in another column.

A Card.

For the benefit of people who have to work nights the Globe will serve a regular dinner consisting of meat, vegetables, bread, butter and coffee for 15 cents from 6 in the evening till 4 in the morning. This gives people of small means an opportunity to get a good warm meal for less than they can bring a cold lunch from home besides being more conducive to health.
